The purpose of this document is to capture what little facts are known about the two young people who immigrated to the United States from Eastern Europe around the turn of the 20th Century, the family they left in Europe, and their first generation of children born in the U.S.A.

Tillie Baer

Tillie Baer (nickname Toba), born in 1886 (though we have no record of the month and day) fled Poland to Canada when she was 18 years old in 1904. Her father had passed away, her mother re-married, and according to her "life in Jaroslaw, Poland offered her no future". That, plus the stories of how wonderful things were in America, caused her to leave home at a very tender age. With relatives in Montreal she went to Canada first, and eventually made her way to the US and to Brooklyn. Her contact in the U.S. was a cousin named Rose Lemanowfsky, a widow, and Tillie lived with her for a time at 1350 43rd Street in Brooklyn. Tillie was very vague about her years in Poland, but she did recall that Franz Joseph was the ruler of Poland at that time.

Tillie (Baer) Horowitz as a young girl and in 1952 at age 66 on the roof of her building at 762 E. 3rd St, B'klyn

In an "Application for Registry of an Alien" which Tillie filled out on March 15, 1933, when she was about 46 years old, she stated that she arrived in New York on March 1, 1906 at the age of 20. Her description says fair skin, grayish, brown hair, gray eyes and 5'2" tall. She had arrived in the U.S. by train from Montreal, and she lists her occupation as "finisher". The application lists several residences, all of which are in Brooklyn. It is known that Tillie worked as a maid on Shore Road in Brooklyn before she got married.

The only known photo of Tillie's mother and sister; (sister's name unknown, year unknown)

Felicia Kochanska, Tillie's sister who lived in Ingolstadt, Germany

Above on the left is the only known photo of Tillie's mother and sister. There is some reason to believe that Tillie had two sisters, but the evidence is sketchy. To the right is a photo of one of her sisters, Felicia Kochanska. Apparently she avoided being killed by the Nazis because she was married to a German officer. She had no children and no one knew she was Jewish. When she married the German soldier she was cast out of the family¹. She was buried in a Catholic cemetery near Ingolstadt² Germany where she had lived.

Tillie also had a brother (or a step brother) named Heinrich Kelz, a tailor who had "done well" in Warsaw, Poland. He had two sons – Siegfried (Sygush) who became a dentist in Italy, and the younger one, Max Kelz who also lived in Warsaw. Siegfried's wife, Paula (or Pola) Kelz was also a dentist, and both had a very comfortable life in Italy. Their daughter was named Many (or Manny), and she was 4 years old when Mussolini came to power. Mussolini forbade Jews to practice their profession, so Siegfried arranged to send money, via a ship's captain to Tillie to save for him. They eventually fled to the U.S., Tillie returned the money, and they settled in Boston where he practiced dentistry in Brookline, Massachusetts with his wife Pola as his assistant. Sometime in the 1930s Tillie did make a trip back to Poland to see her mother, brother and his family, Sygush and his family, and Felicia. Unfortunately no details remain of her trip. Apparently Tillie had a disagreement with Siegfried Kelz and they did not keep in touch for many years until renewing contact sometime in 1961³.

² Ingolstadt is a city in the Free State of Bavaria, in the Federal Republic of Germany. It is located along the banks of the Danube River and is part of the Munich Metropolitan Area.

We don't know how Tillie met Elias, her future husband. In May, 1911 (exact date unknown) they were married, both were approximately 25 years old. Elias and Tillie had five children: Irving (born 01/26/1912, died 11/11/1981, age 69, blocked arteries), Joseph (born 03/25/1916, died 04/22/1983, age 67, a smoker), Simon (or Si, born 02/20/1918, died 03/19/2001, age 83, cancer), Florence (born 2/13/1921, died 03/14/2022, old age) and Ephraim(or Ephie, born 12/20/1924, died 12/26/94, age 70, brain tumor). During this time she lived at various residences in Brooklyn, NY. The final one was located at 762 East 3rd Street, Brooklyn, on the fourth floor with no elevator. Tillie and Elias were married for 26 years before Elias died on July 30, 1937. Elias is buried in the Mount Judah Cemetery in Ridgewood, Queens. Tillie died on April 23, 1973, (no specific cause) and both are buried in Mount Judah cemetery in Queens⁴. She was approximately 87 years old when she passed away.

Three photos of Tillie; the two on the left have no date; the one on the right was taken sometime in the 1950s.

Elias Horowitz

Elias was born on March 14, 1883 in the city of Gomel in what is now Belarus, but at that time was simply part of Russia. His parents were Hirsh Horowitz and Froome nee Rabinowitz. Elias Horowitz was approximately 16 years old when he left Russia. Several years before, in 1898 Czar Nicolas II had barred Jews from living in major Russian cities. This was the same Czar who earlier had issued an edict demanding that all Jews had to settle within the so-called Pale of Settlement, an area bounded by Poland on the west, Belarus on the South, and Ukraine in the East. It gave rise to the shtetls and, of course, pogroms. (lacking confirmation). Elias crossed into the US on October 21, 1906, on the S.S. Amerika⁵ which had sailed from Hamburg, Germany. He was processed through Ellis Island. His original home may have been Lemberg now Lviv, in western Ukraine, near the Polish border. The manifest from the ship included some basic facts about him.

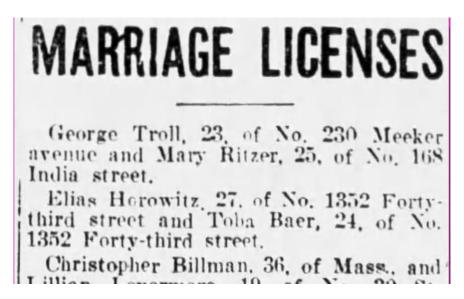

Tillie & Elias holding newborn Irving, 1912

⁵ There are several ships with the same name, though the one he took was likely the one that sailed between Hamburg and New York, see http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/SS_America_%281905%29, and the picture below which was taken around the same time and is likely the same ship.

Two pictures of Elias Horowitz, taken with his daughter Florence in 1935, two years before his death⁶

When Elias arrived he was 20 (or 22) years old. He listed his last residence as Warschau though this was likely a temporary address as he moved through Europe. The relative he cited was Joseph Rosenberg (see Appendix A) though we have no further information about him.

Above is the announcement of the marriage of Elias Horowitz to Toba (Tillie) Baer on Sunday, April 21, 1912; He was 27 and she was 24. Both spoke only Yiddush

Elias, Tillie, Israel (my father), Joseph, (can't make out the name, but it is Simon?), Ephraim, and Florence, who would have been 7 years old. Elias is shown as coming from Russia in 1904, speaks Yiddish and is proprietor of a fruit business. Tillie comes from Austria in 1906 and speaks Yiddish. My father Israel is listed as a Manager of the fruit business. He would have been 18 years old.

Below is a snapshot recording the obtaining of a marriage license for Elias Horowitz, age 27 to Toba Baer, age 24, the latter living at 1352 Forty-third street

Elias' driver's license from 1934 indicates that he weighed 115 pounds, was 5 foot 4 inches tall with grey eyes and black hair. Elias became a citizen in January, 1937. The primary language spoken between Elias and Tillie was Yiddish in the early years, but once the children were born and started school, the children answered in English and eventually both Tillie and Elias learned to speak English.

Elias was a fruit vendor, waking up each morning and going to the fruit market somewhere in Brooklyn, first with horse and wagon and later with a truck, and then re-selling the fruit to food stores in the local neighborhood. The 1930s was the time of the depression in the United States and life was generally hard. But things took a turn for the worst when Elias became sick with lung cancer (he was a big time smoker). He suffered from lung cancer for several years, and had a lung removed several years before his death. The disease probably accounts for his dour expression in both of the pictures above. The pictures were taken at 580 East 4th Street, Brooklyn in 1935. Elias' early passing was traumatic for everyone in the family, and put a burden on the older children to help support Tillie and their siblings. Elias died on July 30, 1937 at the age of 51 from the effects of lung cancer. As is Tillie, Elias is also buried in Mount Judah cemetery, nearby but not next to her.

The only known relative of Elias was George Garbe who lived in Canada, apparently at 711 Victoria Ave., West Mount, Quebec, Canada. Evidence indicates he was a cousin of Elias. There is a letter that Florence wrote to him in June, 1940, looking for jobs for Joe and Si. George Garbe replied using the letterhead GENERAL CIGAR COMPANY LIMITED, for which he was employed. He suggested they contact Abe Freedberg, a possible cousin, but unfortunately Garbe and Freedberg were unable to help. A recent Google search (Sept. 2020) turned up an article from the 1949 issue of the Canadian Jewish Review, which offered these two lines:

Mr. and Mrs. George Garbe, Victoria Avenue, are leaving for their country home at Big Cedar Point, Ont., for the season.
Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Guttman, Cote des Neiges Road, will visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Garbe, Victoria Avenue, at Big Cedar Point, Ont.

the 1940 census shows Elias, Joseph and Simon gone from the house. Israel is a radio mechanic and Florence a stenographer.

Children of Tillie and Elias Horowitz

Between the years 1912 and 1924 Tillie and Elias had five children: Irving, Joseph, Simon, Florence and Ephraim. The following paragraphs discuss each in brief.

Irving Horowitz

Irving (on right) and Joseph at a young age

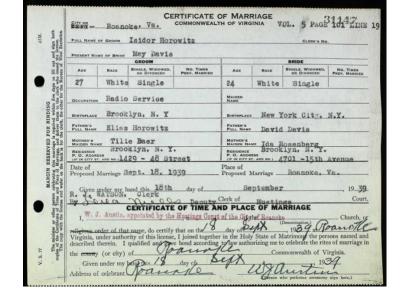

Irving, also called Irv, Izzy, or Isadore (born 01/26/1912, died 11/11/1981) grew up in Brooklyn and graduated from Erasmus Hall High School, probably around 1930. He attended one semester of college (school unknown), but dropped out to help his father support the family. In the 1930s, in addition to helping his father, he also had a bookstore and repaired radios. He was self taught. Prior to joining the Army Irving worked for the U.S. Army, Philadelphia Signal Corps as an Associate Inspector. His ID listed him at 5' 7", weight 190 lbs, hazel eyes, and brown hair. He was drafted into the U.S. Army in 1943 and served overseas.

Apparently there was a very brief marriage and divorce

Isidore Horowitz Army Discharge Form

Irving and Ruth official wedding portrait, April, 1942

Irv was a member of the 1139th Engineer Combat Group, Colonel Niles the Group Commander. In a letter dated February 9, 1945 from Chaplain Luther Fletcher to Irving's wife, Ruth, he assures her that Irving and his group are doing well,

"This Easter season in which we shall celebrate the Resurrection of a living and abiding Christ, although life has been accelerated, and the stress and strain accentuated, we are praying that in spite of the violence and strife incident to this war, you may have a deep and abiding peace which only a living Christ can give – the true meaning of Easter."

Irving's military papers listed him at 1781 East 16th Street, Brooklyn and said "Better known as Izzy and the operator of that wonderful machine the Odograph⁷ – always insisting riding in the ditches after dark."

1943, Sgt. Irving Horowitz at Camp Beale⁸

Irving and the 1139th landed at Utah Beach in Normandy, France, and went on to Le Mans, Chartres, Fontainebleau, and then into Germany at Reims, Verdun Mainz, Frankfort, Weimar, Regensberg, and finally into Austria Passau and Lambach (which is just outside Vienna). Their primary task was bridge building.

Ruth went as far as the 8th grade and then stopped. She had a few clerical jobs but was eventually encouraged to get married. The marriage was brief and there are no details about the divorce. Irving graduated Erasmus Hall High School and apparently went to college for one semester. But he was needed to help his father and did not continue his formal schooling. Irving had an early marriage which, as with Ruth, did not last very long. Divorce was based upon adultery, the only basis for a divorce in New York State at the time. Irving met Ruth Diamond in the Catskills and they married on April 21, 1942 and lived at 1781 East 16th Street, Brooklyn. Ellis was born on 02/11/1944 and Cecile on 10/13/1947. After the war Irv supported himself by repairing televisions. He occasionally had a small store, but more typically worked out of his apartment at 1775 East 17th Street, Brooklyn, NY. The apartment was over a grocery store. The building has since been torn down and is now a set of condominiums.

Life for Irving and family was difficult and compounded by the fact that Ruth contracted multiple sclerosis around 1954. Irving was committed to caring for her at home, and after a long decline Ruth eventually passed away on 11/31/1967 at age 57. Irving stayed on in Brooklyn after both Ellis and Cecile left home. After retiring in 1976, Irv moved out to Los Angeles to live with his son Ellis and daughter-in-law Maryanne. After suffering several heart attacks, the first one around the age of 60, he died of a heart attack due to arteriosclerosis, a stiffening or hardening of the arteries, on 11/11/1981. An angiogram before his death showed general blockage throughout and hence there was no opportunity for a bypass operation. Irving is buried in Mount Sinai Cemetery in Los Angeles. Ruth is buried in Mount Lebanon cemetery in Iselin, New Jersey, B#9445, Planted Grove, Section 1, Block 10, Lot 38-41, S/D "H", Grave #11

Joseph Horowitz

Joseph was born on March 25, 1916 and died on April 22, 1983 at the age of 67. The cause of death came from multiple sources including emphysema and diabetes. He was a serious smoker. As did his siblings he attended Erasmus Hall High School, but he did not graduate as he needed to work and contribute income to the family. He joined the Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC) an agency set up by President Roosevelt in the 1930s. It offered a job with a minimum monthly payment, an attractive offer since there were millions of men without jobs at the time. The CCC was an opportunity for young men who were living in cities to experience life in Western towns. Eventually he was drafted into the Army, and served for 3 ½ years. He was an airplane armament gunner at various American Air Force installations and participated in anti-submarine campaigns.

After the war he settled in Richmond, Virginia with his partner named Rose (shown before). Though they had no children of their own, they raised her niece's two children: Harry Watts and Roseanne Canterbury. A long time smoker he was constantly coughing and had a very hoarse voice. He suffered from diabetes and emphysema. He made a living as an air conditioner and refrigerator repair man. He also had some acreage in Montpelier, Virginia where he grew soybeans.

Simon Hurwit

Simon was born on 02/20/1918 and died 05/19/2001 at the age of 83. The cause of death was colon cancer. He never graduated High School, though like his siblings he attended Erasmus in Brooklyn. He enlisted in the New York National Guard on April 21, 1937 and was honorably discharged at the rank of Private on April 20, 1940. At some point afterwards he joined the US Military. Si's Honorable Discharge from the US Military lists several facts about his military service

- His rank was PFC, private first class
- His address was 762 East 3rd Street, Brooklyn NY (which was where his mother Tillie was living)
- Blue eyes, black hair, 5' 7" and 162 lbs.
- Occupation was heavy truck driver
- Battles and Campaigns included: Algeria-French Morocco, Ardennes, Central Europe, Normandy, Northern France, Rhineland, Sicily, Tunisia
- Educational background indicated 3 ½ years of high school; apparently he did not graduate
- He was awarded a Bronze Star Medal for "heroic or meritorious achievement in connection with military operations" in Normandy, France on June 6, 1944.

¹⁰ With the outbreak of World War II in Europe in September 1940, the U.S. Government created a military airfield in Harlingen. The mission of Harlingen Army Airfield was to train aerial gunners. See http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Harlingen Air Force Base

Perhaps the most important battle Si participated in was the landing on Omaha Beach on D-Day, June 6, 1944. He was a member of the 3rd Battalion Hq Co., 16th Infantry Regiment of the 1st Infantry Division, whose nickname was the "Big Red One" ¹¹.

After returning from the war, Si took up work in Gladys' father shoe store, located in Dorchester, Massachusetts. After some years Gladys joined him as a saleslady and worked with him for many years. He bought a house in Brockton, Massachusetts and raised his family there. After retiring he moved to Cape Cod and lived at 296 Scargo Hill Road, East Dennis, Massachusetts. Gladys and Si retired to Florida and still continued to sell shoes part-time in a shopping mall. Si died of cancer at the age of 83 and Gladys died at age 84 (or so) on 05/12/2007.

1941, Si and Gladys Hurwit

Si married Gladys (nee: Tattlebaum) and had two children: Ellen born on 02/04/1947, (died of pancreatic cancer on 08/2018), and Jonathan born on 08/26/1950. Ellen produced two children: Jennifer and Chris. Jonathan produced three sons: Joshua, Aaron, and ?

Recent Note: Joshua Hurwit, son of Jonathan married Alyson (Lifshitz) Hurwit on 11/13/2010 and as of 04/2015 they have two daughters: Alexa Hurwit, born 06/06/2012 and Emily Hurwit, born 05/24/2014. Joshua is a lawyer, currently working for Littler in New York.

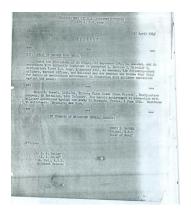

¹¹ The Big Red One is a nickname for the 1st Infantry Division of the US Army that served heroically in World War II. The name derives from the red numeral "1" on the Division's shoulder patch. Some of their exploits were recounted in a film made in 1980 of the same name starring Lee Marvin and Mark Hamill, see http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/The_Big_Red_One or http://www.imdb.com/title/tt0080437/

After World War II he worked as a salesman for stores selling infants and children's clothing. He had a keen sense of style and eventually became a partner in a large children's and menswear store located on Fifth Avenue in an area called Sunset Park, Brooklyn. While living in Brooklyn Ephie and Gloria had two children, Louise, born on 11/07/1947 and Michael on born 06/11/1950. Later they bought a home in Ridgefield, Connecticut. Ephie died on December 26, 1994 at 70 of a brain tumor (unknown if it was benign or cancerous) and Gloria passed away at age 85 on 06/06/2008.

Florence (nee Horowitz) Daks¹³

Born in 1921, in Brooklyn, Florence (Flo) was delivered at home, the fourth child of Tillie and Elias Horowitz. Florence graduated from Erasmus Hall High School in 1938 when she was 17. Below is her graduation picture. She dreamed of going to college and being a teacher, but the US was in the middle of a depression, with long lines of people looking for work, and with no father she needed to earn money for herself and the family. Instead she went to Secretarial school and got a job for $5/week. Her first job was working for the theatrical manager at the Nora Bayes Theater on 216 w. 44th Street. Her second job was at the Office of Price Administration, a New Deal agency created by President Roosevelt. It was located in the Empire State Bldg. Her third job was working for attorneys. After WWII, she got a job working for B'nai B'rith.

¹³ Florence died on 03/14/2022 at the age of 101. She is buried at Montefiore Cemetery, Block 81, Row 10R Grave 7R on Montefiore Ave, gate 255/N. Her husband Seymour who died on 07/13/1994 at the age of 73 is also buried there in Block 81, Row 10R, Grave 6R.

Florence's Graduation Picture from Erasmus Hall High School

Around 1952 to gain some independence Flo moved out of her mother's apartment into her own place. The apartment was located at 4455 Broadway and 192nd Street in Washington Heights on the island of Manhattan. Below are some photos of her as a single young lady.

Flo as a Young Girl

In 1953 Flo decided to take a vacation alone and she headed up to the Adirondacks in New York State and there she met a young man, Seymour Daks. Seymour immediately struck her as a warm and trustworthy person. As they were both attracted to each other they decided to continue to date once they returned to NY. By this time all of her brothers were married. After a year of courtship they were married on August 22, 1954, in a Syrian temple Ahi Ezer Congregation, in Brooklyn where Gloria Horowitz (Ephie's wife) father, Basil Cohen was instrumental in arranging the details for the wedding. Their only child, Martin, was born on October 13, 1956.

Seymour was brought up in the Bronx and had one older, married brother Joseph (see the photo below). Seymour graduated from DeWitt Clinton High School and went to Pace College for a while, though he did not earn a degree. He worked as an accountant, and when he met Flo he was working at the Gimbels department store¹⁴ and living with his widowed mother. In addition to being a warm and friendly person, Seymour had several hobbies, one of which was collecting Lionel train sets. Later on he developed an interest in photography and immediately became the family photographer. Unfortunately, Seymour was a smoker and at age 73 he died of esophageal cancer. Quoting Florence "the two of them had a wonderful relationship for 40 years".

Brothers with a strong bond, Joseph and Seymour Daks (photo taken in 1985)

Flo had worked for B'nai Brith prior to getting married, but once married and becoming pregnant she didn't work again until Marty was 4 or 5. Below are two photos of their wedding that took place on August 22, 1954.

Florence, the Bride

¹⁴ http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Gimbels

As Marty grew older Flo resumed her working life. She started out at the Bronx Veterans Hospital, working parttime while Marty was in kindergarten. They were living in Washington Heights in upper NYC, but the neighborhood was not a good one, and they decided to move farther north to Yonkers around 1968. It was too far for Flo to commute to a job in Manhattan so instead she took a job working for Feuer Trucking in Yonkers. After working there for about five years she went to work for the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, Reform Synagogues, which was located on 65th street and Fifth Avenue, going back to Manhattan. She worked there for 8 years until retiring in 1986 at the age of 65.

Above Florence and Seymour in 1954, 1955, and then with Marty in 1958

For fifteen years thereafter, Flo worked one or two days per week as an executive secretary for a Jewish philanthropic couple until she finally retired (for good) at age 80. In her later years she continued to volunteer at Montessori school, PS 27, where she worked with pre-Kindergarten and Kindergarten children helping to teach them to read. Mrs. Berger is the teacher she worked with, as Flo says, "a very religious woman, one of the most devoted teachers I ever came across." The kids would read to Flo out of their readers, and Flo would correct them if necessary or tell them the definition of a word.

Flo was a devoted family person. She had fine relationships with her brothers (Irv, Joe, Si and Ephie) and her sister-in-laws: Ruth (my mother), Gladys (Si's wife) and Gloria (Ephie's wife) and with her nieces and nephews.

In Flo's later years she moved out of her Yonkers apartment and into Country Meadows Retirement Community, located in Bethlehem, PA. This put her very close to her son Marty, who was now also living in Bethlehem (at 3840 Lehigh St). Marty was able to visit regularly, making sure that Flo had whatever she needed.

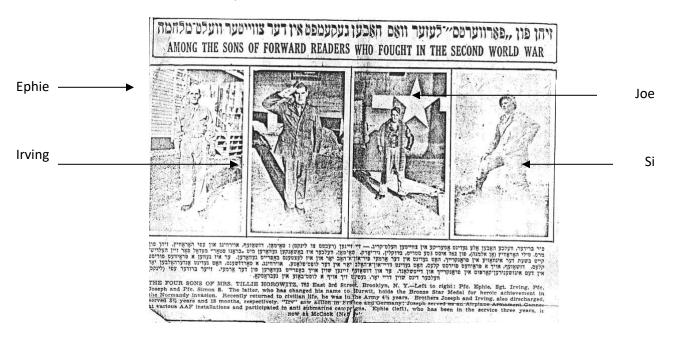

In 1976 Flo was taking classes at a local college. One of her assignments was to write her autobiography. Though she was only 55 at the time, she did her assignment writing eight chapters and earning a A grade. The document provides an interesting view of a poor Jewish family living in the depression, as well as Flo's very positive personality. The autobiography can be downloaded at https://horowitzfamily.com/familywebsite/Flo/FlorenceAutobiography.pdf

Finally, one of the traits we all very much adored about Flo was her efforts to stay in touch with family. To that end she kept an address book that kept track of birth dates, marriages and (even) deaths. I convinced her to make a "clean" copy so we might have it for posterity. As this is a historical document I haven't tried to keep track of the current generation of cousins as they grow, get married and have children. However, a lot of them are mentioned in Flo's address book. I have uploaded it to the website, so if you are curious you can download it at https://horowitzfamily.com/familywebsite/Flo/FlosAddressBook.pdf

The War Years

The US entered World War II on December 7, 1941 after the attack on Pearl Harbor by the Japanese. The four sons of Tillie Horowitz, Pfc. Ephie, Sgt. Irving, Pfc. Joseph and Pfc. Simon all served during World War II. For many of them it was an important lifetime event that they spoke about for many years afterwards. Si (Simon) was especially proud of his service, having landed on Normandy Beach on D-Day and earning a Bronze Star Medal for heroic achievement in the Normandy invasion.

Epilog

This document is a work in progress. Many of the dates provided may not be accurate because so many of the people have passed away. I have intentionally restricted my focus to the first generation born in the United States, to their parents and whatever I could learn about the families in Europe. The uneven coverage is primarily due to my lack of information. Additional facts are welcome and can be sent to horowitz@usc.edu.

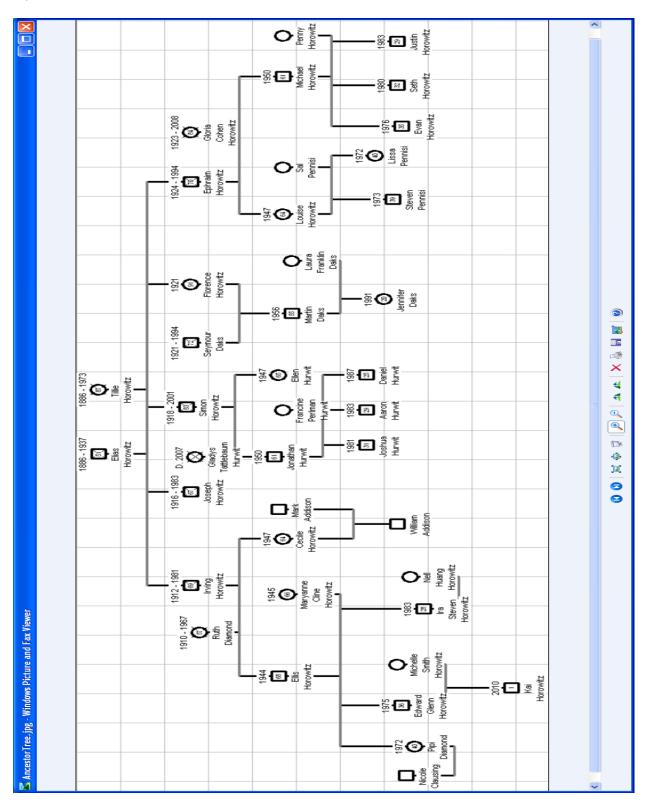

Appendix A: A copy of the manifest from the ship taken by Elias Horowitz to the United States.

It shows him as 20 years old (therefore born in 1886), single, a tailor by profession, of Russian nationality, and his last residence was Warsau (Poland), 5 foot 8 inches in stature (though we believe this is incorrect, he was shorter). Apparently he had only $18 in his pocket, and he was going to meet his Uncle Josef Rosenberg. Unfortunately we have no information on Uncle Rosenberg.

Appendix C: Ellis' thoughts about growing up in Brooklyn

At today's (Jan 19th) meeting the assignment was to "tell a brief story about a place significant to your life, how that place impacted your life, and whether that place still has significance in your life".

Here is my response.

The most significant place I can think of is 1775 East 17th Street, Brooklyn, NY where I spent the first 20 years of my life. I lived there with my father, mother, and sister. The apartment was located over a grocery store and my father would often say that it was "close to the food". What he didn't mention was that the apartment also came with cockroaches. As a teenager when I came home in the evening my job was to throw on the kitchen lights, run in and kill as many cockroaches as I could. They run very fast.

Once we had an attempted break-in, so my father rigged up two metal clamps on either ends of the door. Every night my job was to insert a steel rod between the two clamps so that the door couldn't be breached. My father slept with a Nazi sword by his bed, one he had brought home during his service in WWII.

My bedroom was at the end of the apartment with two walls to the outside and a non-working radiator. In the winter I could lie in bed and see my breath. In the morning I would wake up, grab my clothes and run into the kitchen. There I could hold my clothes over the gas stove so they would warm up before I put them on.

Since my mother couldn't walk, she had MS, my father rigged up a chair and some ropes so if there was a fire we could presumably lower her down to the street two floors below. There were no fire escapes so I am not sure what the plan was for us getting out. For years I had a recurring dream of hanging out my bedroom window and dropping to the ground. I didn't always land safely.

The apartment below us was occupied by a family of alcoholics, so one could never be sure of safely getting to our apartment without an encounter. The two flights of stairs were dark and creepy, and of course I was too embarrassed to bring friends home.

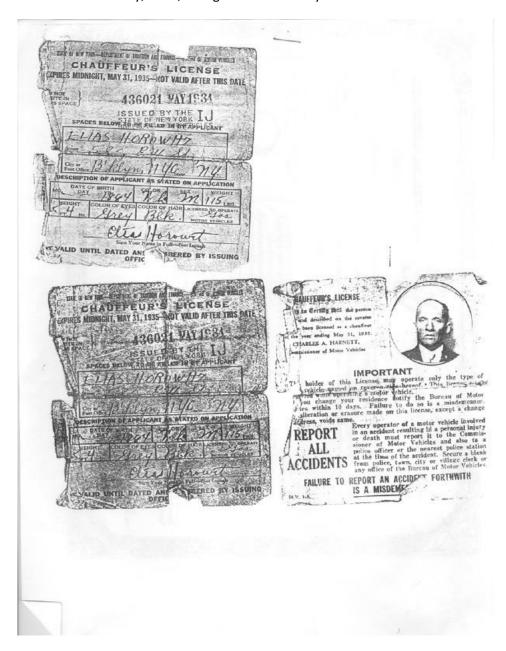

On a lighter side, my father's job was to repair TVs, so at any given time we might have two or three stacked up in our living room. At least one would be working.

All of this is many years ago. My father tried his best to take care of my mother and raise two children, all of which he did. I am grateful to have gotten through it.

Appendix D: Elias Horowitz' Chauffeur's License and Citizenship Certificate

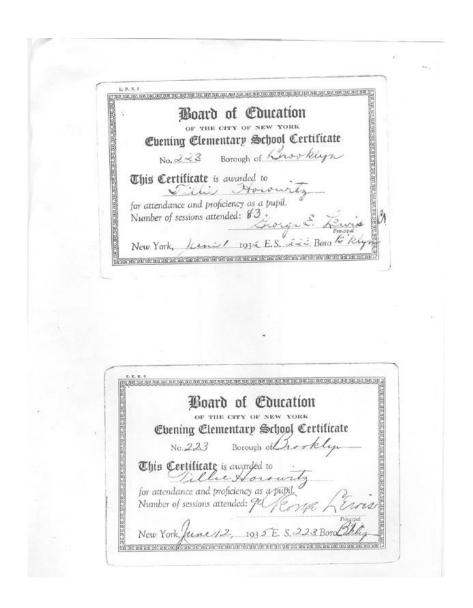

There is some confusion as the license says he was born in 1884, not 1996. Also, I never heard that he was a chauffeur. The license was issued in May, 1934, though he died a few years after in 1937.

One thing we can say for sure, he was a naturalized citizen, as below is his certificate of citizenship

APPENDIX F: The Kelz Family

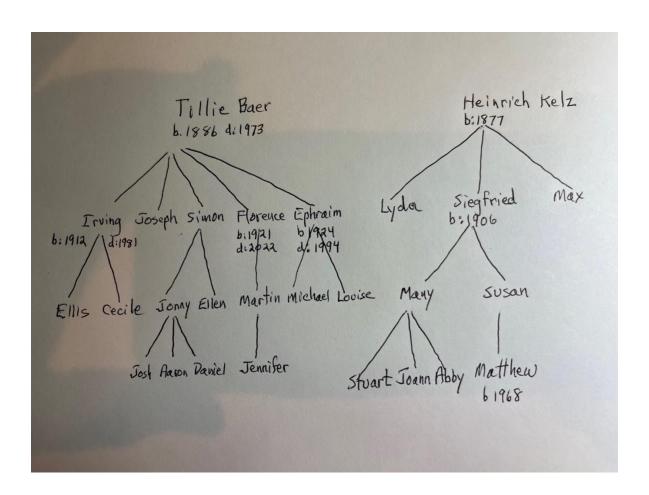

The material gathered here is devoted to the Kelz family. As noted in the letters below, Siegfried Kelz was related to Tillie Baer. Much of the material below was provided by Abby Werman, a grandchild of Siegfried Kelz. The letters from Siegfried were provided by Florence Daks, daughter of Tillie. Of special significance are three videos (posted on YouTube) containing interviews of Siegfried and Paula. I don't know the year they were filmed. I understand that the interviewer is Susan Kelz husband Allan. Here are the links:

Sig & Paula Interview 1

Sig & Paula Interview 2

Sig & Paula Interview 3

A MAJOR UNANSWERED QUESTION: Since Tillie and Heinrich have different last names, we are unsure of their relationship. We do not know the names of their parents. My understanding is that Tillie's father died and her mother re-married. If true, then Heinrich may be a half-brother or a step brother. In either case we know that they communicated with each other, though one lived in Brookline (MA) and the other in Brooklyn (NY).

Appendix G: Letters from Siegfried Kelz to Florence (Horowitz) Daks

SIEGFRIED KELZ, M.D., D.M.D. 1804 Beacon Street Brookline, Massachusetts(46)

October 19, 1961

Dear Florence:

After all the years of your silence, it was quite a pleasure to receive your letter and to know that, most of all, your mother is Thank God pretty well.

Where we don the live in the same place and we keep so little in contact, one starts wondering about his only Aunt and asks himself a number of quesions? You answered the basic one and all I wish to say is "Thank God" your mother is a worthy descendant of her own mother (meaning your and my grandmother), whom I may have seen last around the year 1926 or 1927(?)

So many years ago, having just graduated from high school (8 years of high school in Poland), and remembering her as an old-lady in her eighties. All I wish is to push away the pastand to know whether my own father or mother should have graciously continued into old age if the Nazis would not have curtailed their lives.

The same question applies to my older sister LYDA and my younger brother Max. Well, such questions will remain unanswered for the rest of my life .

I am glad to know that your brothers are fine and I realize how difficult it is for Irving having to sustain the role of father and mother because of his Ruth's sickness. Thank God, too, that he was able, so far, to manage. Is there any wonder that he turns his eyes to the skies and asks "Why this punishment"?, especially to a man of your brother's fine character. Here again there is no answer to such questions.

I am very happy to read that his son is a student of Brooklyn College. No wonder his son takes after him. I remember AUNT telling me how good a student Irving was in high school and had to give up his studies to find a job.

I am also quite glad to hear about Ephie and his family. From my own observation, I can say that Ephie is a lucky boy, having Gloria for his wife. She is a very, very fine person.

We visited Gladys and Si about 2 years ago in their own home in Brockton but haven't seen each other since. They used to come to our house with their children while they lived in Brighton.

Thank you for enclosing a picture of your boy. Without the benefit of knowing your husband, I would say that Martin Charles takes after his mother. This observation does not include the ice cream h € is holding in his right hand since I do not know whether you like ice cream or not.

Now about my own family. Manny is now a happy mother of an 18 month's old child. His name is Stuart Martin. She(Manny) graduated from Wellesley College, the year after her marriage. Susan is now a Sophomere at Barnard College in New York. Paula and I have not been to New York for a number of years except a brief attempt to see Susan in College, rushing through to get to the ship for our planned visit to Europe.

That was on Sept. 22,1960 and 48 hours later I suffered a stroke (on high seas) while vomiting due to sea-sickness. Here again I will never know whether I would have met with that misfortune while on land, and without vomiting, or was the sea sickness plus vomiting responsible for this cerebral accident, which affected my whole left side.

It was a nightmare when I recall the circumstances under which I was destined to suffer. I was placed in the ship's hospital and I must say that I had good medical care although the chief doctor asked Paula whether I am Catholic in order for the priest to give me the last sacrament.

Paula, who had always been the angelof my life, having faith hand medical advice background kept insisting with the doctor that I am going to pull through. Sure enough, my writing to you now more than year later, attests to it. After 2 months of hospitalizationin Naples, were so happy to fly home and rejoin our children.

I must add that I am a very lucky man, having been given a chance to see my daughters and grandchild again. I still am now under medical care and my physician keeps telling me that I am a healthy fellow. The problem I have now is how good a dentist can I be with only my right hand? I thought of some solution to each qustion but the answer won't be found for quite some time.

I thought of peridontalogy(--) or partial and full denture work (which I always liked) but precision bridgework is now out for me. Since 1-2 months, I have been seeing patients and doing as much as I am able to work (?) with assistance at the chair. I have never been sick, all along these bygone years, but if I needed any demonstration of loyalty on the part of my year long patients, it was and continues to be shown to me to a degree where my being gateful just would be almost meaningless. I had so far 2 dentists substituting for me (separate from each other), and one of them is still taking care of some patients, either by himself or helping me in some degree.

Please, Florence, don't mention to your mother not 1 word of what happened to me. There is no need to sadden your mother if it can be

Everything is now fine in our household. Susan is back at Barnard. Should you wish to call her up or see her, it would be very nice of you. She is happy being in College and oherwise a perfect stranger in New York. If you should wish to call her, she lives in Hewitt Hall of Barnard College. The full address is 3001 Broadway, New York 27, N.Y. I am going to write Susan your address too, and if I could know your husband's first name, I could give Susan your telephone number. To expedite this little problem, it would appear less complicated if you would call Susan.

With best regards to all of you, Sygush & Paula.

Dear Florence, Seymour & Martin

I thank you very much for your welcome greetings. We are all well except for Manny(Jeanette)whom you will remember as a young 4 year old girl. She has a neurological chronic ailment, since college age, named M.S., which has affected her right leg. She doesn't complain but has to use the aluminum 4-legged walker to ambulate. She is a very intelligent soul(?)of 49 years, knowledgeable in many fields, like romantic languages, Greek and Roman mythology, and became last year "aFellow" at TUFTS UNIVERSITY, Boston, Ma.

Everybody in the family is o.k.

I was so glad that we are in touch. Love,

Dear Florence:

Happy 65th Birthday with many happy and healthy returns surrounded by your own family, Seymour, Martin and hopefully his future wife to-be, and a grandchild or grandchildren AMEN. Since you are a new Social Security member, may I suggest that you request medical insufance(Blue Shield protection) in addition to Hospital (Blue Cross Insurance.

When I became a Social Security member in 1971, I got that Blue Shield protection at my request. Maybe by now your Social Security grants also Medical (Blue Shield) protection as the Red, White and Blue card should read, so that it is good if you have both Hospital and Medicare protection.

MANY and her children and I thank you also for your expression of sympathy due to the death of Michael. It was a tragic and unexpected blow. MANY is a brave and strong woman, fluent in many languages. She occupies heraelf teaching at the Berlitz School of Foreign Languages, and in the Newton, Mass. school system.

Because of her knowledge of Greek and Roman mythology, she was nominated a Fellow of TUFTS UNIVERSITY after a series of tests, exams which she passed successfuly.

I hope dear Florence, that you will find your niche in your ambitious determination of working too. I agree with your desire to welcome a young lady as the wife of your Martin and a.... child or grandchildren.

It is great that you and your brothers meet occasionally, in a family get together as you did recently. MANY told me she will write to you to thank you for your condolence. I am...and rather a popular resident in this Hebrew circle a very worthwhile institution, and as a doctor quite welcome. T.V. people interviewed me for videotape publication. I met here former patients who became residents as aged people. I also met my daughter's former pediatrician, who being alone and a bachelor became a resident here.

I eat well, don't sleep well, and as they say -lack of sleep never killed anybody. I miss Paula very much. There are people here of all kinds of background, all aged likeI. People like me associate with congenial persons.

I am sure you will be successful in your determination to be employable. Congratulations and much good luck to you. Don't work too hard...Think of your health first. It was good to talk to you, not just when death occurs.

With best regards to Seymour and Martin, and love to you,

P.S. I would have answered you sooner, but my glasses broke(the (OVER) frame) and I was unable to use them. A new vision examination is required and I will be getting new glasses with lenses. In the meantime Many's daughter found an old pair of my glasses yesterday. The frame is good but the lenses are weaker. This is more serviceable. I could not read or write until yesterday. In the meantime I am grateful to my granddaughter for finding the ones I can use even if the lenses are weaker.

Dear Florence:

"Happy 65th Birthday" and many more in constantly food health with your husband, Seymour, and your son Martin. May you live to see him married to a young and shapely lady, and may you see a few grandchildren too.

Your son is probably shy with women. He should be encouraged to join a nice Temple Congregation where as a member of the Brotherhood he would be invited to occasional dances and entertainments. There are many nice parents there who are anxious to marry off their daughters. Such an environment could be conducive toward his meeting a nice young girl to fall in love with him, and be serious toward marrying such a young person.

- Hearing how to be romantic...maybe you, Florence, could guide him if he is willing to listen to you. I hope you don't mind my idea. I just could not think of a simpler way.

Many, her children and I thank you for your compolence letter due to Richard's sudden and premature passing. To pass over the difficult loneliness and she became a full time teacher at Berlitz School of Foreign Languages, where she teaches English, French, Italian and Spanish to students of foreign origin. She also passed with A markto become a Fellow of TUFTS UNIVERSITY, due to her profound knowledge of Greek, Roman and mythology. She will be teaching in the Newton, Mass. High school the above languages. It was helpful financially. Michael's mother is helping at present and so is my monthly allowance, which helps too.

Your interfamily occasional get-togethers with your brothers is wonderful and very welcome when you can share childhood memories of the bygone years. Personally I missed them because as an adult I lived in foreign countries, and only very seldom was I in touch with my sister or brother. they became victims of the terrible Nazi holocaust.

I hope, dear Florence, that youemployment during your recent realizes and that you can be active as you desire. But don't overdue, be mindful of your health. I don't know when, but I hope that pretty soon Manny will thank you two for your condolence letter. With best regards to your husband and son, I am With love, Your Sygush

P.S. I would have answered sooner but the day I received your letter,the right arm broke off the area of the lenses. I could not write or read without the lenses and this made me furious. It took this long to have a new vision examination, new lenses and glasses. Now feel better. Please let me know whether I mailed to you a letter before this letter. Thank you. Be well. N.B. Please notice my room's new number. it is Room 311 not 313.
